

Webraydian's Privacy Policy

Contributed by Ray Gilman
Tuesday, 18 April 2006

Webraydian's Privacy Policy

Policy Summary

Webraydian does not sell, trade, giveaway or abuse your personal information...

Webraydian's Privacy Policy

Policy Summary

Webraydian does not sell, trade, giveaway or abuse your personal information for any reason. Any information submitted by you is used for login details needed to gain access to this site or to identify you as a user of Webraydian.

Contact
Webraydian.

General Privacy Policy

Webraydian employs a 'no spam policy' and doesn't sell, trade or abuse your personal information in anyway. The information gathered by Webraydian is user submitted and only if the user chooses to submit that information. All information submitted at Webraydian is used for login, articles, comments, product purchases, advertising purchases, opt-in list mailings (if/when available) or forum participation and nothing more.

You will not be put on any lists by submitting your personal information at Webraydian, nor will this warrant unsolicited mailings from users, staff or others associated with Webraydian, with the exception of actually submitting to an opt-in list or other opt-in programs that would require contact/mailings, in which case, mailings would not be unsolicited.

All reasonable efforts have been employed to protect any personal information submitted by you and great care is used in respects to the use of said information.

Although, reasons to contact an individual arises from time to time, this contact only happens in extreme cases or when an individual expects contact, such as, forum communications, opt-in lists or a response to a previously received email from you.

Opt-out from lists or opt-in programs can be achieved by clicking on a link designed to remove your information or by contacting staff by way of the contact form on this site.

Additionally:

- Google AdSense is used as a third party vendor on Webraydian.com, and Google AdSense utilizes DART cookies to serve ads at Webraydian. Users may opt out of the use of the DART cookies by visiting the Google ad and content network privacy policy.

All participation on Webraydian.com is subject to this privacy policy.

Webraydian