

DUI: Driving under influence

Contributed by karan
Tuesday, 18 November 2008

DUI is a term used by most states which stands for driving under influence of alcohol, drugs and other intoxicated condition. It is the situation or act of driving a vehicle after having alcohol or drugs. It is a crime in all countries in the world. It is a serious offense and you have to pay charges for it and also take action against you with a DUI. There are many punishments here like driving license could be suspended, punishable to jail, and fined large amount of charges. {mosbotwordcount}

DUI is a term used by most states which stands for driving under influence of alcohol, drugs and other intoxicated condition. It is the situation or act of driving a vehicle after having alcohol or drugs. It is a crime in all countries in the world. It is a serious offense and you have to pay charges for it and also take action against you with a DUI. There are many punishments here like driving license could be suspended, punishable to jail, and fined large amount of charges.

{bot_wrgoogle} This criminal conviction could impact on your future, your employment opportunities and career. DUI is also known as DWI in some states, means driving While Intoxicated.

Terms and conditions:

Find out Absorption Rate: Absorption rate is the amount of alcohol which you have consumed. It is find out by checking blood stream.

Suspension of Administrative License : This rule arises when you are in DWI condition. A law allows to suspend the license of DWI drivers .

BAC: Stand for "blood alcohol concentration." BAC is measure in percentage, the amount of alcohol in your bloodstream. It also measured by breath testing, blood testing and urine testing. Its adopted limit is 0.08%.

Blood Test: It is a medical test that helps to measure total content of alcohol in your blood.

Breathe Test: Breathe test used to measure level of blood alcohol that is raised from measuring the level of total percentage of alcohol in the person's breath.

Chemical Test: It is a test check out the concentration of alcohol or drug person's blood. There are few methods like Breathalyzer, blood analysis, or urinalysis can be used as chemical tests for alcohol.

Vehicle used for commercial purpose: This rule is followed when people driving a commercial vehicle while drunk. It is the DUI context which is highly punishable.

Conditional License: A conditional license is a license issued "on condition" like completion of a DUI training or alcohol treatment program. We can easily issue a standard license on the basis of conditional license.

Driver Responsibility Tax: This is a tax that you have to paid to the state in case of incident occurred for continuously three years. Its amount is $250. If you are unable to pay then your license can be suspended.

The Abreu Law Firm is a full-services Lawyer Miami. and criminal attorney miami.