

A Paper MLM Downline

Contributed by Michael Brymer
Sunday, 25 March 2007

Let's take the example of situation where your company is going to open in let's say Japan next year. Your MLM doesn't currently allow members to sign up members in Japan until the official opening of your MLM in Japan. Read on

{mosbotwordcount}

Have you ever heard of a paper downline?

The term "Paper Downline" was first made by Michael Brymer the owner of www.mlmbuff.com and can be used as a system to build a huge downline.

{bot_wrgoogle}The paper downline can be used in the country you are in or in the country you intend to build a downline in but due to your MLM restrictions are unable to currently build a paying downline in.

Let's take the example of situation where your company is going to open in let's say Japan next year. Your MLM doesn't currently allow members to sign up members in Japan until the official opening of your MLM in Japan.

Let's also say that the company's name is Super MLM Success Millionaires. Now you can't go to Japan and sign up Super MLM Success Millionaire members or your company will more than likely cancel your membership and give your downline to your upline.

So step one is not to use the company name. Think of a different name such as Friends Of SMSM. Step two is to make an application form for Friends Of SMSM

On the application form you will need a few basic things.

1. Name of applicant.
2. Name of sponsor.
3. I.D. number (usually the applicant's full phone number - cell phone is best)
4. Home address.
5. Email address (2 if possible)

You could do this on the internet but not everyone is on the net.

Going to Japan may not be an option for you at this stage. So the best thing for you is find an English speaking person, whether Japanese or not, but someone who speaks the local language.

The SMSM application forms will also have to be in the local language which means a translation.

OK, let's assume that you have a contact in the country and the application form is in the local language. It's now up to you to work with you contact to get things going. All people in the country really have to know is that a big new MLM is coming and they have the chance to build a downline before it arrives.

The overseas contact then starts recruiting as in any normal MLM but should target MLMers in that country first. Signing up people should not be too hard as it is not costing them anything and they have the prospect of gaining a huge downline in a new MLM business opportunity in their country.

You could use a paper downline system in your country, build a large downline and then hold meetings and decide what MLM is best for the group. The meetings could discuss possible MLMs that the group may consider. It doesn't really matter what MLM the group joins as you'll be at the top anyway.

If you have a large contact list of people interested in MLM than you'll always have the opportunity to make money in MLM. Read on:

Read more MLM secrets at <http://www.mlmbuff.com>

Download a Free Radio at

<http://www.internet-radio-download.com>